Porter McGuire Kiakona & Chow, LLP Announces New Family Law Practice

Senior Associate Attorney Seth Harris Joins the Firm to Handle a Full Array of Family Legal Services

Honolulu, HI (May 23, 2017) – The Honolulu law firm of Porter McGuire Kiakona & Chow, LLP (PMKC) announces a new family law practice, expanding the firm’s legal services to include adoption; guardianship; prenuptial and postnuptial agreements; divorce; and child relocation services.

PMKC welcomes Senior Associate Attorney Seth Harris to oversee the new practice, while Kapono Kiakona, who became a partner of PMKC in 2010, will assume the role of co-managing partner.

“We are looking forward to applying our decades of experience to the underserved area of family law, guiding Hawaii families with a trusted steady hand to make the best-informed decisions for their issues,” Kiakona said. “This expansion fits seamlessly into PMKC’s overall vision to support Hawaii’s communities with smart legal services and solutions.”

Prior to joining PMKC as a senior associate, Harris was a senior associate at Hartley & McGehee, a family law firm in Hawaii. He previously served as an associate at Case Lombardi & Pettit in Hawaii and as deputy corporation counsel for the City & County of Honolulu. He earned his J.D. from the William S. Richardson School of Law at the University of Hawaii in 2001, and his bachelor’s degree from Georgetown University in 1997. Harris has 16 years of experience and is licensed to practice law in the State of Hawaii.
